The Financial Management Institute of Canada - Capital Chapter/Institut de la Gestion Financiere du Canada - Section de la Capitale is an organization dedicated to promoting members' understanding of the financial management practices of the Public Sector.

The Financial Management Institute of Canada - Capital Chapter/Institut de la Gestion Financiere du Canada - Section de la Capitale is an autonomous chapter of the Financial Management Institute of Canada (fmi*igf).

2. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of accounting

The accounting policies of the organization are in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations.

Contributed services

Volunteers contribute various number of hours towards promoting members and non-members understanding of the goals of The Financial Management Institute of Canada - Capital Chapter/Institut de la Gestion Financiere du Canada - Section de la Capitale. Because of the difficulty of determining their value, contributed services are not recognized in the financial statements.

Revenue recognition

Membership and patron fees are set by the Board of Directors in consultation with the Financial Management Institute of Canada (fmi*igf) and ratified by the members at the Annual General Meeting. Membership and patron fees are recognized as revenue over the period to which they relate. Memberships are non-paid, as long as the member has participated in at least one of the organization's paid events or product events during the member's membership year. However, no participants can be awarded a membership automatically without them specifically acknowledging their acceptance of the membership. The membership year is a period of 12 consecutive calendar months starting on the date that the membership opt-in is received by the organization.

2. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES - Cont'd.

Financial Instruments

The organization initially measures its financial assets and financial liabilities at fair value. The organization subsequently measures all its financial assets and financial liabilities at amortized cost, with the exception of marketable securities quoted in an active market, which are subsequently measured at fair value. Changes in fair value are recognized in the statement of operations.

Financial assets measured at amortized cost include cash and receivables.

Financial liabilities measured at amortized cost include accounts payable and accrued liabilities.

Financial assets measured at fair value include term deposits. The fair values of investments are determined by reference to the latest closing transactional asset value quoted in an active market.

Term deposits

Term deposits are valued at the lower of fair market value and net realizable value.

Equipment

Equipment is accounted for at cost. Amortization is based on the estimated useful lives of the assets using the straight-line method at a rate of 33% and is prorated in the year of acquisition.

Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. All estimates are reviewed periodically and adjustments are made in the statement of operations as appropriate in the year they become known.

Management makes accounting estimates when determining the estimated useful life of the organization's equipment and the related amortization expense, the net realizable value of accounts receivable and in the estimation of significant accrued liabilities. Actual results could differ from these estimates.

3. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

The organization is exposed to various risks through its financial instruments. The following analysis provides a measure of the organization's risk exposure and concentrations at June 30, 2019.

The organization does not use derivative financial instruments to manage its risk.

Credit risk

The organization is exposed to credit risk resulting from the possibility that parties may default on their financial obligations. The organization's maximum exposure to credit risk represents the sum of the carrying value of its cash, term deposits, and its receivables. The organization's cash and term deposits are held with a Canadian credit union and as a result management believes the risk of loss on this item to be remote. The organization manages its credit risk by reviewing accounts receivable aging monthly and following up on outstanding amounts. The organization believes that all receivables at year end will be collected.

Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the organization cannot meet a demand for cash or meet its financial obligations when they become due. The organization manages its liquidity requirements by preparing and monitoring forecasts of cash flow from operations, anticipating investing and financing activities, and holding assets that can readily be converted into cash.

Market risk

Market risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market prices. Market risk is comprised of currency risk, interest rate risk and other price risk.

i) Currency risk

Currency risk is the risk that the fair value of financial instruments or future cash flows associated with the instruments will fluctuate relative to the Canadian dollar due to changes in foreign exchange rates.

The organization's financial instruments are denominated in Canadian dollars and it transacts primarily in Canadian dollars. As a result, the organization does not believe it is exposed to significant currency risk.

ii) Interest rate risk

Interest rate risk refers to the risk that the fair value of financial instruments or future cash flows associated with the instruments will fluctuate due to changes in market interest rates.

The organization manages its interest rate risk exposure through its investments in term deposits which provides fixed rates of interest. As such, the organization's exposure to interest rate risk is minimal.

iii) Other price risk

Other price risk refers to the risk that the fair value of financial instruments or future cash flows associated with the instruments will fluctuate because of changes in market prices (other than those arising from currency risk or interest rate risk), whether those changes are caused by factors specific to the individual instrument or its issuer or factors affecting all similar instruments traded in the market.

The organization is not exposed to other price risk.

Changes in risk

There have been no significant changes in the organization's risk exposures from the prior year.
